loch, we take it. scarcely needs to be advised against a precipitancy, which the uccessities of his position and the political considerations which mingle with the financial elements of the question must guard him against sufficiently. The chances are that a public officer in his attention, feeling the need of popular support in his action and compelled to riquare his measures with some reference to the effect upon the administration of which he is a member, will be more inclined to an undue apprehension of embarrasements in the money market and business world than to an excessive boldness in meeting them. en, Chicago, Pittsburg, Lonisville, Concinnati, Richmond, Memphis, Vicksburg, Mobile, and New Orleans, all complain of a lack of dwell-lngs for the accommodation of their redundant opulation. How long this movement is to

on the agriculture of the country, and the price of bread, are questions that already possess deep cling, against lannehing out in fresh specula-tions, against heavy purchases abroad, or in-creasing their indebtedness anywhere—inshort against that whole system of commercial reck-lessness and rash expansion, which provides the materials for "ilizancial embarrassments," and so throws in the way of the secretary the most serious obstacle to the easy success of his poli-cy. There is no department of business in which advice of this sort does not seem to be argently receded, il we are to have an early movement of contraction. Let the movement be as "cantions" salt may, it it is "prompt" as it should be, the commercial world needs to prepare itself for the charge.

In July, 1822, Congress passed nn act rescribing an oath of office for all persons to take who were elected or appointed to my file c'bonor or profit nucler the Government of the United States. This oath requires the party los wears that he has treer borne arms against the United States, that he has not yleld on each of the United States, that he has not yleld or or or or of the United States. If this oath is to be applied to members of Congress, it will, of course exclude all from South Carolins. It may with the the said that no man in South Carolina and take it wishent committing perjury. But the Constitution of the linked States prescribes an oath for members of Congress to take, and they cannot be required to take any other contitutionally. There may have been some show of prepriety for exactleg this oath when it was enced, amid the war between the Southern States and the United States; but there can be none now, unless it be for the puppes of excluding the Southern people from all effice within their respective States, and still helding these States in military subjection. I show that this is not the policy of the President, and I cannot believe that it will be the axow of policy of the Federal Congress. If the Southern members are present when the roil is railed by States, they will take a part in the organization of the House, and may vote against the cath being tendered to the members when they are sworn.

and appeared self-possessed. This was Mrs. Augusta A. Currier. On being lutroduced to the undience she arose with digulty, then became entranced, and the "spirit" of Copernicus having taken full possession of her, the lady commenced to speak on satronomy. Her language was coplons, and had that peenfiar soft sweetness characteristic of woman's vote when her better nature masters those little hlemishes of temper co unpleasant to contemplate. She spoke for an hour, and traversed space, time, and eternity. As with all spiritualists, she need a multiplicity of far-fetched and extravegant expressions, such as the organic matter of the infinite world, the magle worlds that balance themselves on the onter bounds of eternity, fields of space unfathouned by the telescope, rays of light that departed from the sun ten million years ago, infinite cosmopolitanism, astronomical infelleities, and athousand other infelleities. To cap the climax she called man the crowning jewel on creation's brow, while we poor Adamites have always thought woman was the jewel, and same of us have found her a most costiy one. The lecture evinced a wonderful knowledge of the beenty, form, and shape of the celestial weric's but I doubt whether a woman, and especially a woman of family, should dwell so long, so claborately, and so dopnently upon the astronomy of the heavens, without one reverting to the cares and responsibilities of a mother. But all the benefits they have conferred on us are more than halanced by the genial influences of our great Galf stream, which, when the world was young, set up "un ocean line" that has never known a moment's interruption. Should it cease or charge its course, the winters of England would be as Siferism as those of Canada, and her noble ports would be in winter locked by a key of frost.

Turning to the matters immediately before us, I naw be permitted to say that I have always felt an intense interest in navigation and navai architecture. I was born by the sea side, and the very words of Byron I may adopt:

"Have loved the, Ocean and my joy."

"Thave loved the Cocan and my nor

The debt on the Clat of October stores follows: Colinbearing $1,190,187,689 as follows: Colinbearing $1,190,187,689 as a clear reduction of $16,881,812 within the hast two months, or at the rate of $101,008.8725 vear. The debt on the $14.01 October stood as follow: Cein-bearing $1.100,137,692, and currercy-bearing $1.101,810,787; the annual interest charge on which is given at $61,670,311 in coin, and $71,267.738 in lawful money; making the total of the yearly interest $138,328,979. In the coin-bearing portion of the dect an increase is discernible, and in the currency interest portion a corresponding contraction, trace-able to the recent funding of compound interest noise into five twenty gold-bearing bonds. The cash halance remaining to the credit of the Treasury in the various depositories of the public moneys at the close of October, is given at $68,355,579, including $34,551,987 in coin (equal, with gold at 115, to $50 101.723 in currency), and $48,880.592 in lawful maney. Or this behance, the United States Sub-Treasury in this city beld $57,200.121.

The cutstanding legal-tender issues of the Government at the beginning of the current week amounted to $683,702.881, as against $678,123,250 at the close of the preceding month, showing a reduction of nearly forty-four and a half million dollars in this terportant intention which the past four weeks, or at the rate of over ileven malii in dollars a week. MORALE OF THE NORTHERN ELECTIONS -IN New York, New Jersey, Maryland, Iowa, etc., the elections have gone in favor of the "Republicans." The results are not without sig They have a bearing upon the restoration of the civil affairs of the country to heir normal condition. They should therefore be beeded. They will naturally exert more or less influence upon the administration of the Government and upon Congress. The President should certainly not be the mere creature of the caprice of the hour. On the contrary, he should stand, if necessary, as a wall-against it; but at the same time he is bound to pay a decent respect to popular opinion fairly ex remed at the ballot box. Whether it is his duty to bow to that opinion at all times and nder all circumstances is another question. which depends for its answer upon conditions t necessary for as upon the present occasion he should. We can conceive of a state of pub ic opinion which it would be the solomu and imperative duty of the Executive to resist with all his power and firmness even to the sacrifice himself politically and personally.

The President has taken a highly conservative and national course in restoring the Southern States to their civil rights in the Union and under the Constitution. For this he has been severely censured by the more ultra class of "Reublicans," and has been not very warmly applanded by those comparatively moderate. ne only "Republicans" who have thoroughly indorsed his policy are the conservative Repubicans. Now, the distinction between these and the true Democracy is simply the difference between greater and less, the true Democracy being more conservative and the conservative Republicans less. Taken as an organization the Republican party is less conservative and the Democratic more so. Tois we take to be the real difference, as a general rule, between the two parties at the present sent. Both of them, as we have said before, indorsed the Administration before the ate elections; and yet there was manifestly a difference perceptible in the respective indorsebetter pleased if the national Executive had pursued a course less conservative than he has done; and it has been equal; evident that the Democrate-speaking generally as beforehave indorsed the President enthusiastically if he had exhibited more conservatism than he has shown. Under this state of facts, the electhe "Republicane" walk over the course with the greatest ease; and, in some important prop up slavery -or seem to do lt-in New sey is voted down by great odds, the Republican, carrying that stronghold of Democracy by storm. On the other hand, the attempt of the 'Republicans' to carry negro uffrage in Connecticut failed. This shows how clear a perception the thinking masses have of the fuste milieu and how determined they are to preserve this just medium between the two extremes of radicalism. In the result of the Northern elections-in which we include Maryland, "My Marvland"-the less conservative element has triumphed over the more conservative. There is no question of it. It is best state facts distinctly. There is never anything gained in the end by shutting our ever against them-which has so long been the inchion in the Southern States, owing to the demagognes. All shades of Republicans voted together in the late elections. Some of them didn't like the principles counciated, didn't like the endorsement of President Johnson's policy, but their opposition to the Democracy was so great that they emothered their resentments and voted the Republican tickets in order to defeat the 'Democratic" tickets. Occasionally, they talkd of bolting, but they didn't. They said they'd | Feace of the nation. bide their time. They expect at the next electinn to carry a radical platform, in which, if harmony act wisely they will be, we think, wodisappointed. The late election has its significance on the other side, and the radical ers, it is rather probable, will take a hint from it. Though some of them may be mad, there is method in their madness. The "Democrate" have been defeated undoubtedly through the incurable radicalism of a set of reactionists and demagogues who coemccrats." No party can carry that faction and live. If the Democratic party isn't satisfied of this fact, let it go ahead and try it again and until it is satisfied. These Democratic radicals have abused the President and his policy in the choicest terms of denunciation they could invent. They have declared over and over that Mr. Johnson is "conducting the Government to a pure despotism," and they ring the Charges according to a graduated scale to suit localities and particular cliques, but their opposition to his course is none the less evident because sometimes partially concealed. These actionists, with exquisite modesty, never fall to style themselves "the Democracy," just as the old secessionists used to dub themselves "the South." The late elections are the responses the people have made to their fulminations. Their support is fatal, their denunciations of the Administra harmless. This is the morale of the late elections in the North so far as the Damocracy are oncerned, and if they chose they can profit

In the work of restoration these men are among the worst enemies the South has to contend against. They insure the victory of the less over the more conservative policy in every Northern State, and they thus retard the work of harmony and restoration in the South. This fact does not seem to be understood in some quarters in the South. We sometimes perceive that these very Democratic radicals referred to in the South as her friends, and their journals quoted accordingly. There never was a greater mistake; and if any Southern Districts permit themselves to be humbugged to this idea, and act upon it, they will ere long find out their mistake, though it may not

Southern Representatives altogether. The negroph obia radicals will feel themselves atrengthened by the late elections. They will claim that the victory is theirs, and it will be much more difficult for the Southern reprecentatives to get their seats than it would have been if the "Democratic party" had succeeded. it will consequently require greater circum-Epection and eagacity on the part of the South to enable the President and his real supporters— Who are the only Union men of the country, by whatever name they may go-to complete the and self-government, including, of course, representation in Congress. The merale for the Bouth of the Northern elections is the adoption of such measures as will take the wind out of Stevens-Summer eails. We were in hopes that all the Conventionsxcept the South Carolina Convention, and of that we could not expect it-would have adopted the same phraseology and declared secession nuli and void. We had hoped that secession would have been hit right on the head and ts brains knocked ont by every State; and especlally had we a right to hope so after the prompt nd pointed action of Mississippi. If any State could have pleaded for "repeal" beside South Carolina, that State is certainly Mississippi. for, rext to the Palmetto, it was a secession State. We did not expect that the good old Unionoving State of Georgia would dodge the issue and 'repeal' secession.

We trust Florida and Texas, the only remain ng two States to act upon the question, will declare the revolutionary ordinances—they were simply that and nothing more-null and void Give the heresy no quarter.

Here is the Georgia ordinance: We, the people of the State of Georgia, in Convention at our seat of government, do de-lare and ordain that the ordinance adopted by the said people in the Convention of the 19th day of January, A. D., 1861, entitled "An Ordiorgia and other States, united with her on year last aforesaid, entitled, "An Ordinance to adopt and ratify the Constitution of the Confederate States of America;" and also all ordinances and re-olotions of the same, adopted between the 16th day of January and the 14th day of March of the same year afaresaid, subversive of or antagonistic to the civil and military anthorities of the Government of the United States of America, under the Constinction thereof, be and the same are hereby repealed. HERSCHEL V. JOHNSON, President.

As we stated yesterday, the result of the ection just held lu New Jersey, by securing to cation of the Constitutional Amandment, has secured, also, the incorporation of the Amendment itself into the Federal Constitution. The ments. It has been evident to any man with Legislatures of lows, Oregon, and California, soon to assemble, will, simultaneously with that of New Jersey, ratify the Amendment, thus prohibiting slavery in the Union forever. The politicians must now cease their quarreling over the slavery question; never again can It form a dietarbing element in the politics of the forme with reference to the negro will be under the exclusive control of the States respectively and will be based alone upon considerations of State policy without creating issues of a sectional character. And it seems to ne that this fact should be received with gratification by the patriotic men of all parties. The removal of the slavery question from our national politics marks a new era in the history f parties, and their organizations are bound to be more comprehensive and conservative than ever before. The last contest over slavery in Kentucky has een fought, and our politicians must range themselves bereafter with reference to other maine for the approaching Legislature to perform. Kentneky owes it alike to her own high mission as a State, and to the nation, of which che forms so conspicuous a part, to place herself in harmony with the progressive spirit of the age. Cannot men of all parties, in the midst of ne, in a great era like this, lift themselves above the paltry prejudices of the past and identify themselves with the luevitable destiny of affaire? Shall our enlightened and noble Commonwealth linger in the rear of all her the invincible decisions of war and politica? Our fallh is strong that the small majority in our next Legislature, elected against the Amendment, will appreciate the sacred duty of the hour too clearly to array themselves against a measure which so much involves the future

FAVORABLE REPORTS FROM THE SOUTH -The editor of the Nashville Dispatch has had the the real friends of the Union and of national pleasure of meeting the Hon. Harvey M. Watterson, who has just returned from a month's of the Constitution tour in Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, and Lonisiana, in the capacity of confidential agent of the Government. The President desired corof the Government. The President desired correct information in regard to the real condition and intentions of the people of these States, and t was to gain this information he dispatched Mr. Watterson to the States named. That gentleman has spent a month in mingling with the people of those States, and he expresses himself highly gratified with what he has heard and mer. He found the people everywhere doing whatever was in their power to restore the States to their former relations to the Gavernment. They accept the result of the war in good faith, and nowhere did he find a spirit of discentent or a desire to get ont of the Union. How different a liberal, unprejudiced man sees men and things from the man who carries his prejudices to such an extent that he can see rothing good in the Southern people. Mr Watterson says that wherever he went he found the record regarded siavery as dead and the question forever settled. He thinks the great body of the people are rather pleased that "the deculiar institution" has been erushed out, and they now look forward for a higher prosperity than the South has ever enjoyed. Their great therity, is to precure the labor necessary to nitivate their lands. In some sections this labor is being supplied by the freedmen, but in others the negroes have not learned what freedom means. Especially is this the case in Louisiana; but Mr. Watterson attributes this to influence which has been exerted by men who have sought to promote their own interests at the expense of the negroes.

As an evidence of the peaceable disposition of the people, General Steadman, the comman der of the district of Georgia, informed Mr. Watterson that as soon as the civil government should be restored in that State, there would be no further-use for the military there. And what is true of Georgia in this respect, is equaly une of the other States visited.

Such reports as his personal observation and inquiry have enabled Mr. Watterson to make, will go far toward confirming the good opinion the President has on more than one occasion expressed of the Southern people. He now has the views of a gentleman in whose judgment he has entire confidence, and these viewa exactly coincide with his own. The people of the South can be trusted with the powers which legitimately belong to States in the fullest considence that they will not abuse this trust. This fact has been fully demonstrated in the work of restoration in Mississippi, Alabama, and Georgia. The people everywhere in the South regard the President as their friend, and they will cordially sustain him in his great work of retoring the Southern States to their place in the Union. Col. B. H. Bristow, of Christian county, has resigned his seat in the State Senate, hav ing been appointed Assistant United States District Attorney, in the place of Hon. J. Kemp Goodlee. Col. Bristow is now in this city, and has determined to make his permanent residence here. As a member of the Senate he achieved an enviable reputation, his fine abliihes being freely acknowledged by men of ali work of restoring the South to her civil rights are sure that he will discharge his duties with marked efficiency. An election has been ordered to fill the Senatorial vacancy created by the resignation of Col. Bristow, and we are gratified to observe that Major D. McClaggett is announced as a candidate for the position. Major McClazgett is well known in th; Southern part of the State election of old-time Union men to office, the as one of the most gallant Kentucky officers in repudiation of the insurgent debt, and unquali-fled support of the Administration. the recent war. His career as a soldier, from the beginning to the end of the war, was a brilliant and noble one. He participated in all the stop their ears, after the old fashlon, to plainly important engagements on the battle-fields in evident facts, as exhibited in the elections just the West. The keystere of that policy was to appeal, in their primary capacity, to the light, loval voters of the so called seeded States, to resume their practical relations with the Federal Government, by taking up in their respective State Conventions their own Constitutions and laws, as existing previous to the ordinance of secession, and conforming them to the existing lasts brought about by the war, viz: Prohibiting slavery, providing for the protection of the persons and property of the freedmen, reputiating the rebel debt in every suspe, and afterward, ratifying the National Constitutional Amendment through their Legislatures. The beauty of the President's polley is that it compels even rebel sympathizing constituencies to be represented by loyal men, or not at all, and in this way operates as a double punishment on the institutions of the rebellion, as they are not eligible to ceats until Congress comes to their relief. It is certainly no detriment to the Union cause to have its members strengthered thus by loyal representatives from the late rebel State governments, which will tend to build up a party therein, "instead of expelling and discouraging the loyal citizens who have est up the same, as to further effort," in the inguage of President Lincoln's proclamation on the Wada and Davis reconstruction hill. Elavery, the cause of our dissension, being removed, all patriotic men should unite to emocth over the sectionalism and bitter antagonisms that have grown out of it, and under udiclous management there is no reason that he Union organization should not have as many friends South as North in process of time. THE NEWS.

Judge Steele, of the Chancery Court, sitting at Lebanon, Tennessee, has delivered an opinion in which he takes the ground that an bligation contracted to aid the rebellion is null and void, and, accordingly, he dismissed a all brought to enforce such a contract. The Nashville Dispatch thinks that if the position aken by Chancellor Steele chall be held to be uation. Shortly after their departure from law throughout the Southern States, an imnemes amount of indebtedness will be dischargel quite easily.

The excitement on account of the Fenians in Carada seems to be increasing. The Toronto correspondent of the New York Herald, writing from that city on the 3d lnst., says: "We are beginning to see the effects of the alarm on all sides. Financiers are watching the events of the bour depositors are withdrawing their tash from the banks, and converting it into gold, produce dealers are closing up their busistorm burels. Terror and concern are stamped upon every countenance we meet. Farmers are selling out and departing for the States, and the rebel refugees and Northern bounty-jumpere are on pettles. Business, it is true, gues on se usual, but we fail to find that venturesome spirit manifested to invest that has marked calere in previous years."

In regard to the complications of French and American affairs, the ludependence Belge says: The intention of the French Government to not continue the occupation of Mexico beyond what is absolutely necessary, and thereby to remove all cause of dispute with the United State, is more decided than ever. It is even said the speech from the throne at the next meeting of the French Chambers will announce the entire evacuation of Mexico by the French troops.

We endeavor to imagine how it would be in case Eug should get mad at Chang, and challenge him to merial combat at teu paces. Of course Chang couldn't 'see it," or accept the terms; and then his character for pluck might be called into question. Suppose Eug should "lam" somebody, and be convicted of assants and battery, and centenced to a term of imprisonment; they couldn't be separated very conveniently, and the Justice would commit Chang, when Eng alone was guilty of the offence. In case the wives of the two should go out visiting, and leave their husbands home to "tend" the babies, and one of the babies chould fall into the fire, and the other into the clustern, of course Chang would wish to rescue his offspring first, while Eng would insist that his was entitled to prior consideration—and then there would be a row. If Eng, in a fit of carelesences, should insist upon eating something that disagreed with Chang, of course Chang would have sufficient grounds for a disagreement with Eng, and then there would be trouble again.

the co-called Femian loan, and yet it is an act which, if not done, ought to be done at once. However deeply Americane may sympathize with the people of Ireland touching the injuries received at the hands of the English Government, they are not such fools as to encourage open resistance on the part of the poor peasantry of the Emerald Isle against the giganite military power of Great Britain. In his Fenian loan businesse is not exclusively a question of Irish repugnance to English rule. It is a matter of downright ewinding. Every sensible man in this country, and the very people who are engineering this ioan, know that every dollar subscribed to it will find its way into the pockets of vagabends who will never account for any money that they may receive. The most noticeable feature of the whole movement is that its controlled almost exclusively by unknown Irishmen. The attempted revolution of 1848 turnished the world with rannes which, at least, had a recognized standing, such, for latance, as Smith O'Brien. Thomas Francis Meapler, John Mitchel, Richard O'Gorman, and other which might be mentioned. But the Femian movement of 1865 is confined to porter-house keepers, brieflees lawyers, and a set of characterless nobodies without responsibility, influence, or even notoriety. The subscribers to this loan will be day-laborers, servant girls, and other poor ignorant people who have no means of judging of the chances for or against an attempted revolution in Ireland. To obtain money from these people is swindling, pure and emple, and it is due to the good name of the American nation that the strong arm of the law be interposed to protect them against such an imposition.

New York Sensation.—The famous balloos wedding, postponed on account of the filness of the bride, is to take place on the first fine day of the coming week, instead of to-morrow as announced by one of our contemporaries. The ceremony will be performed by a Philadelphia clergyman, who comes on expressly for the purpose, in the presence of Rev. Heart Word Beecher, and other invited guests. The reliminary arrangements are now quite completed. A superb car belonging to Prof. Lower has been newly furnished with Brussels carpet, damask cushions, loce curtains, and blue silk 322 Main Street, Between Elighth and Ninth, LOUISVILLE, KY.
